FUNERAL THIS MORNING FOR KNIFE VICTIM

Funeral services will be conducted this morning at 10 o'clock from the Santa Fe quarters here for Jesse Seira, 39, Santa Fe laborer, who was slain in a knife duel with Jose Lopez, 45, outside his quarters in Pinalo on Sunday night.

Wilson and Kratzer will be in charge of the rites which will be followed by interment in the Sunset View cemetery.

Lopez is in the county jail at Martinez facing a charge of murder, following his confession to the slaying of Seira in a knife duel which is reported to have followed drinking bout. Abuse of his father-in-law, by Seira, was given by Lopez during his confession to county authorities as the cause of the fight which led to the slaying.

According to the evidence as reconstructed by the confession and an investigation made by the authorities, Lopez and Seira had indulged in a drinking bout prior to the slaying. "Deputy Constable Jene Shea of Pinalo, who conducted an investigation, reported that he found a gallon jug partially filled with whiskey near the scene of the killing.

Following the drinking party Lopez is alleged to have returned to the Seira home and called the latter outside. After each had taken a drink from a bottle brought by Lopez, according to his confession, the fight with butcher knives started.

Seira received eight cuts from the knife, five being about the chest, two in the abdomen, and one in the back. Lopez suffered bruises about the head, but according to authorities, these are believed to be due to a fall. Following the battle Coroner Aubrey Wilson took charge of the body of the slain man and Lopez was turned over to the sheriff's office.

Seira is survived by his widow and two boys aged two years and four months.

Asks To Use Room For Shoe Repair Shop

The application read at the meeting of the council last evening, from Salvatore Ginosco, for permission to use the front room of his residence at the northeast corner of Eighth and Barrett avenues for a shoe repairing shop, was referred to the planning commission for two weeks.

Burg Bros., Pioneer Realtors, To Erect New Two Story Office And Apartment Building Here

Burg Brothers, Inc., pioneer real estate men of Richmond, will erect an all concrete two-story office and apartment building, representing an investment of $25,000, 175 feet off Macdonald avenue on Twenty-third street, according to an announcement made yesterday by E. J. Burg, head of the concern. It is planned that the firm will move into its new quarters sometime before August.

The building will have a frontage of 25 feet and a depth of 80 feet. B. L. Spurr, builder for Burg Brothers, states that the office will be the last word in modern office construction. It will be steam heated and outfitted with new interior fixtures. The change in location from their old office building, 309 Twenty-third street, was made necessary by the large increase in business handled by the firm during the last year, according to company officials.

"We established a building department last June," B. L. Spurr stated. "Since that time what we thought would be but a temporary accommodation to the great number of Richmond people who desired our assistance in constructing modern, up-to-date homes, has grown to such an extent that we have found it necessary to have new quarters.

"We are extremely optimistic with regard to building in Richmond. During the last year we have made plans and started construction on 18 homes. Ten houses are now in course of construction. I feel that it is safe to predict that within five years after Ford has established his plant in Richmond, the city will have grown to the 100,000 mark. "People are no longer satisfied to work in Richmond and commute to Oakland and east bay cities. They want homes in Richmond, but they want the assurance that these homes will be built of the best material and at a reasonable price.

Burg stated that the firm is now constructing homes that are thoroughly modern for a nominal sum. They make a small profit on building, Burg declared. "Our policy includes a small profit on building, Burg declared. "Our policy includes a small profit on building, Burg declared. "Our policy includes a small profit on building, Burg declared.

Burg Brothers are well known as pioneer real estate men in Richmond. They have been in business 25 years, and since their establishment in the city have seen it grow from a few hundred people to a modern industrial center.

DOG ORDINANCE SHOWS ITS NOSE

The "dog ordinance" made its appearance at the meeting of the council last evening, but only for a short time.

City Attorney M. Carlson stated there was a number of questions involved in any proposed change of the present ordinance and asked for further time, which was granted him.

Carlson gave it as his opinion that the present ordinance was not a bad measure at all.

40 Year Old Pony Buried With Honors

(By Universal Service)
NEWTON, N. J., Feb. 7.—"Wooley," a 40-year-old Shetland pony who died here yesterday of acute indigestion, was buried today by his owner, Mrs. Ida Morrison, dairy owner.

"Wooley" taught to drink beer 18 years ago by Edward Morrison, Garwood hotel man, has lived a varied diet, according to Mrs. Garrison. During the last 15 years of his life he had ice cream twice a day. Until he died the pony was used on a milk route twice a day.

CITY PREPARES FOR DREDGING AT FORD SITE

Easley Granted Contract For Building of New Wet, Dry Levees

The first actual steps toward getting ready for the coming of the Ford factory, was taken at the meeting of the council last evening.

Bids were received for the putting in of a dry and wet levee around the 102 acres tract of the Parr Terminal company, and the fifteen acre tract owned by the City of Richmond, and leased to Parr.

The contract was awarded to Robert P. Easley for $9,443.80, his offer being the lowest. The other bidders were Dutton Dredging company, $10,316, and Wright Corporation, $13,218. The contract provides for 4650 lineal feet of wet levee and 4170 feet of dry levee. The contract was awarded on the recommendation of City Manager J. A. McVittie, who had secured the bids, a statement of the new levee will be put around the east and north sides of the 102 acre tract, and the present levee on the south and west sides will be raised.

This work will be done preparatory to the dredging by the federal government, and the mud that is to be pumped out of the channel is to be placed on the 102 acre tract and the 15 acre plans.

Plans and specifications for the harbor dredging are now in the hands of the War Department at Washington, for approval. It is expected this action will be taken in a very short time, and then the government will call for bids for the dredging.

Merchants Hear Talk On Fire Prevention At Session Here

Biggest Meeting for Some Time Held by Association

Fire Chief W. P. Cooper addressed the members of the Richmond Merchants Association last night at its membership meeting in the Hotel Carquinez on fire prevention, giving the local merchants some valuable "tips" on prevention of blazes.

Cooper said in part: "The Richmond fire department wishes to thank the merchants for their cooperation with the department in giving their utmost in fire prevention.

"Last December," Cooper said, "there was an eight per cent reduction in the insurance rate for Richmond due to the small fire losses, and this city now enjoys the lowest insurance rate in the east bay."

Cooper urged the necessity of continued effort not only among the merchants, but also among the homes, to keep the fire loss down. There is a fire loss of $57,000,000 annually in the United States which would mean about $5 per capita, while in Europe, the per capita loss is between eleven and fifteen cents.

NEW GRAFT FOUND HERE

There is something new under the sun. Richmond has found a new kind of graft—graft that is worthy of the skill of O. Henry's Jeff Peters. It is graft that will give a man spending money for a few days.

Yesterday, according to a report given to the local police, a well dressed stranger drove his car up before a rooming house on West Richmond avenue and knocked on the door.

Mrs. Mattie A. Caldwell, the landlady, answered. "I have a suit here for Mr. Charles White" the stranger announced.

Charles White is a roomer at the West Richmond avenue house, and he was at work at the Standard oil refinery.

In the stranger's hand Mrs. Caldwell could see a large bundle. On it was marked: "Suit, $60—paid on account, $44; balance $16. C. O. D."

Mrs. Caldwell paid the $16 and the stranger went on his way rejoicing.

Last night White returned from work and he was told that his suit was in his room and that Mrs. Caldwell had paid.

White denied that he bought a suit. Becoming suspicious they rushed to the package and opened it. There was a big box generally used for carrying new suits.

They opened the box. There was a wonderful array of scrap paper taken from bill boards displayed before their eyes.

The police are looking for the ambitious stranger. He is described as being about 25 or 27 years old, weighing about 140 and has a "medium" complexion.

Among the large group of relatives who helped celebrate the eightieth birthday of Mrs. E. E. Hill of Oakland were Mr. and Mrs. C. M. Richardson of this city.

FINAL PLANS ARE MADE FOR MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

Dinner Meeting Held at Hotel Carquinez By Group in Charge

Inspired by the knowledge that the Chamber of Commerce represents the most potent single factor in the development of Richmond, the membership committee, arranging for Chamber of Commerce Week, beginning next Monday, February 14 and closing Saturday, February 19, held its second and final meeting before the big event last night.

The committee, headed by Geo. Thornton, met at dinner at the Hotel Carquinez.

In appreciation of the splendid support given him by the committee members and in recognition of the unselfish manner in which the members volunteered for daily service during Chamber of Commerce Week, Chairman Thornton announced that he will present a $25 cash prize to the committee member who brings in the greatest number of new members to the Chamber of Commerce during the week of February 14-19.

A list of several hundred names of merchants, business men, firms and professional men and women who should be members of the organization but were not, was supplied each member.

A careful check was made and the list equally divided among the fifteen members of the membership committee. In addition

Storm Sewer On San Pablo Considered By Council

With the plans and specification for the improvement of San Pablo well under way City Engineer E. A. Hoffman last night called upon the residents in the district affected by the proposed storm sewer to make their protests if any before the city council on next Monday night.

Under the present plan a storm sewer will be constructed to take care of the storm waters from the hill district. Some protests have been made against the construction of the sewer because it would drain practically the entire slope of the hill up to the Berkeley Golf and Country club while only a small portion of the residents within the city limits of Richmond would be assessed for the work.

The assessment district as prepared by Hoffman will extend east from San Pablo avenue to the eastern city limits, between McBrade avenue and the Santa Fe Right of Way and those lots on the west side of San Pablo avenue fronting on that street, from Garvin avenue to Macdonald avenue.

In asking that protests if any be made at once Hoffman pointed out that it would save a great deal of expense and time if these objections to the work would make their protests at once. The work will cost approximately $300,000 and the assessment will run about $16.50 for a fifty foot lot and $8.25 for a twenty-five foot lot Hoffman declared.

Cantonese Are Reported To Be Losing Ground In Big Battle

Strict Discipline Is Being Enforced in Both Armies

(By Universal Service)
SHANGHAI, Feb. 7.—Sun Chuan Fang's forces are reported advancing all along the line driving the Cantonese forces toward Changsha, according to a Central News dispatch today. Strict discipline is being maintained here. Many agitators are reported in arrest.

Serious mutinies by the Cantonese troops have been reported from Nanking, which is the Nationalist military headquarters. F. P. Lockhart, the American consul at Hankow, reported that two American yachts carrying refugees were fired upon off Peking but escaped without any damage.

Battle Of Hangchow
The battle for Hangchow is on, and the result will determine whether the Cantonese troops march direct to the gates of Shanghai.

General Sun Chuan Fang's Northern armies are making a determined stand before Hangchow, according to dispatches received here. The reverses they met at Yenchow are said to have been offset by slight gains and the position of the defenders of Shanghai is improved.

Eugene Chen, Nationalist leader, has repeated his assertion that the Cantonese forces do not intend to occupy Shanghai or cause any disturbances here.

As a result of this it is the opinion of the consular body that there is no danger to the International settlements unless mobs of Chinese get beyond the control of their leaders. Sun Chuan Fang has drawn up all his reserves including his own body guard to stem the Cantonese drive.

Police Have Busy Month

During the month of January the Richmond police received a total of 498 complaints, according to the monthly report made by Chief of Police Dan Cox to the city council last night.

There were 106 arrests made and of this number sixteen forfeited bail, forty were fined, one case was dismissed; one received a sentence in the county jail and one was sent to the city prison.

During the month property valued at $2997 was stolen and $2,008.50 of this amount was recovered. The local department recovered $2,050 in stolen property for outside departments.

Six persons were reported lost and six were found.

Twenty-one persons were arrested for being intoxicated and six were taken in the toils of the law for violation of the Wright act, Chief Cox reported.

Nine were arrested for vagrancy. Thirteen burglary complaints were made, seven on bad check passing and one for grand larceny and forgery.

There were seven automobile accidents during the month and four persons were injured. Fifty motorists were cited for breaking the motor vehicle laws. There were thirty-eight accidents during the month.

Larceny reports numbered twenty-one. Three warrants were served and 98 complaints were filed, Chief Cox stated.

Danger of Attack Stops Only Route to Protection

(By Universal Service)
WASHINGTON, Feb. 7.—Chinese soldiers have fired upon American refugees, fleeing from the interior provinces. The State Department announced today.

The Americans were on board two small vessels, making their way down the Yangtze river. Consul Frank P. Lockhart, at Hankow, who cabled the report said no casualties were reported. His message indicated that several hundred American who failed to seek refuge at treaty ports are now completely cut-off from the outside world.

Route Closed
Because of the danger of attack, Lockhart reported that Americans must cease traveling on the Yangtze river which is the only outlet to the coast from Hankow and other points in the hinterland.

The vessels fired upon were the Iping and Chial, belonging to the Yangtze River Steamship company; they were proceeding from Chungking to Ichang last Friday, both cities are several hundred miles beyond Hankow on the Yangtze, and travel on this part of the river is practically impossible, Lockhart reported.

Transportation Inadequate
He also declared that transportation is inadequate.

In answering the seven alarms, 250 feet of hose and 38 gallons of chemicals were used.

During the month 758 fire prevention inspections were made and 128 fire hazards were corrected.

BACK TO THE FARM

In spite of many gloomy predictions about the farmer, made in some instances by professional political reformers there is an apparent trend toward return to the farm on the part of country folks who have been drawn toward the city during the depression in the farming industry. This is the information which reaches us through the National Association of Real Estate Boards which recently completed its fourth annual survey of farm market conditions in the United States. The result of the survey are based on reports of 127 communities in the United States and Canada. The report shows among other things, that prices of farm lands though having a tendency to advance, are fairly stable at a level below 1920, but above the farm price level of 1914. It is stated that there is a greater optimism among the farmers than was evidenced at this time last year with a corresponding increase in credit facilities.

Of the 127 communities which replied, according to the farm report, 56 per cent reported more active than last year; 28 per cent reported the market about the same and only 16 per cent reported that the market was not so good as a year ago. The best farm markets were reported in the North Central and Central Eastern sections of the country, and the Mountain and Pacific states.

The report adds that the greatest reason given by the purchasers for buying farms was the purchase for a home and the carrying on of the farming business, while the second most numerous reason was the expectation that farm land values are going to increase and that the purchase of farm lands now is a good investment.

We have had all sorts of opinions on how the farmer is getting along and whether his condition is improving or declining. This report on the sale of farm lands ought to furnish pretty good evidence. If the buying of farm lands is on the upgrade, as the report seems to find, then there is good basis for the reports that the condition of the farmer generally is improving. Nothing succeeds like success and people will not be returning from the cities to the farms unless they believe there is a better chance to succeed in rural communities.

Governor Al Smith's presidential boom was launched the other day in New York, but it is to be remembered that there are more rivers to be crossed between Manhattan and Washington than there are between Manhattan and Albany.

It is said that 13,000 new laws will be passed by the various state legislatures in session this year. This means of course more work for the lawbreakers.

Personal Health Service By WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

Signed letters pertaining to personal health and hygiene, not to disease diagnosis or treatment, will be answered by Dr. Brady if a stamped, self-addressed envelope is enclosed. Letters should be brief and written in ink. Owing to the large number of letters received, only a few can be answered. No reply can be made to queries not conforming to instruction. Address Dr. William Brady, in care of this newspaper. Name you. City on your return envelope. Don't say "city."

ALL SCHOOLS CLASH ON THIS

A teacher who says she is afraid of my sarcasm writes that she agrees with many of my teachings, the "cold" idea for instance, but she finds it dreadfully easy to imagine the skin has "pores" that must be kept clean—and if the skin had "pores" I agree with the teacher they should be kept clean. In fact I believe one ought to keep the skin clean even if it has no "pores." I have examined a lot of skins, with the naked eye and with the microscope, and I have never found a "pore." A "pore" is a hypothetical or imaginary opening through the skin. There is just one opening in the skin, and that is the mouth or outlet of the duct which carries salty water from the sweat glands and sebum or skin oil from the sebaceous glands to the surface of the skin. It is quite inconceivable, if one has a fundamental or elementary knowledge of human anatomy and physiology, that anything can ever enter the body or permeate the skin through these outlets of the sweat and sebaceous glands.

Where down or hair grows on the skin the hair shaft or hole in the skin is usually the common outlet of the sweat and sebaceous glands. Where no down or hair grows, as in the skin of the palms and soles, the little depressions representing the openings of these ducts are visible in the ridges and furrows which constitute the distinctive or peculiar whorls of thumb prints. On the nose and over the cheeks and forehead the depressions marking these duct openings are usually large and here, particularly, people are prone to call them "enlarged pores."

But this teacher seeks advice about her work. She is a physical instructor in a church school. She asks whether it harms girls of high school age to exercise moderately for about forty minutes each school day, with no interruption of this routine at any time. She herself doesn't believe it does, and she takes that view as a result of her own college training. But her principal is horrified because the physical education teacher expects the girls to take their gymnasium class work just as they do all other class work without interruption. The principal, a woman who received her training in an eastern school, maintains she has the authority of the eastern educators behind her in her determination to coddle the girls, to pinkenize the school morale or spirit, as it were.

This school principal is interfering in a field in which she is untrained. She will find, if she specifically inquires among the learned eastern educators, that the physical instructor is quite right in requiring the girls to attend and without interruption on the plea that a function is a "business." An educator who is an authority can give any support to the pinkenized principal in her morbid aim or ideal, because experience in a thousand schools and colleges for women has proved that the policy of this physical education teacher is the best for the health of the young women under her instruction.

Ordinary teachers and principals are too frequently inclined to look upon physical education as a nuisance, but that is because their own education has been sadly neglected. Let no physical instructor submit to the patronizing attempts of such teachers and their readiness to conspire with the scheming pupil to evade and belittle the physical education. The physical instructor has a great moral obligation on her shoulders and she must never falter in her duty to the girls under her instruction.

Formation of Teeth

Do the teeth in the infant's mouth begin to form about the fourth month of the prospective mother's expectancy? What diet should the mother have at that time to insure sound teeth for the baby? (P. F. C.)

Answer—The development of the teeth begins about the sixth week of embryonic life, with the formation of a ridge on the gum surface. The expectant mother should have an adequate diet from the first, and to insure the formation of sound teeth the diet should include these things:

- (1) Not less than a pint of fresh milk daily.
- (2) One or more kinds of fresh vegetables daily, especially some vegetables which may be eaten raw, such as cabbage, lettuce, carrots, turnips, greens.
- (3) Any fresh fruit obtainable.
- (4) A daily spoonful of cod liver oil.

Egg Versus Steak

A says an egg contains more body building properties than a pound of beefsteak. B claims the steak contains more body building properties than the egg. Please arbitrate. (H. C. J.)

Answer—An egg yields 75 calories and vitamins galore. A pound of beefsteak yields about ten times as many calories (nutritive value, fuel units) but few if any vitamins.

Whooping Cough

I would like to know what whooping cough is caused from. Is it a cold? Is it caused from a cold settling on the lungs? Is it dangerous for a child with whooping cough to go outdoors? (C. K.)

Answer—Whooping cough is a specific infectious disease caused by a bacillus (germ), and it is caught from some other person who has or has recently had the disease. Cold has nothing to do with it. A child with whooping cough always does better in the open air by day and in a sleeping room with open windows by night. Old fogey, reactionary health officers and physicians who still encourage the belief that cold, wet or exposure may cause illness contribute thereby to the unnecessary propagation of whooping cough and various other respiratory infections which purport to be "cold" at first. It is usually helpful to fit a snug belt of muslin with insertions of woven elastic around the child's belly, over the undershirt, as a support. The severity and duration of the illness may be greatly moderated by bacterin or so-called "vaccine" injections administered by your physician early in the illness. Some physician report marked relief from X-ray treatment.

As Others See Us

What can a woman do in a strange land when she accompanies a famous professional husband on a lecture trip? Window shopping? Star gazing? Sitting in the hotel lobby? Going to the movies? OR?

Lady Adams, wife of a noted English educator has answered. While Sir John was lecturing to students in numerous American universities, the Lady of the House studied the students themselves. She made a classification of the college terms used on the campus for those students who were guilty of treachery to the main purpose of colleges by excessive indulgence in study. Such were once called, she learned, "dig" or "dampfools."

"The latter achac word" writes Lady Adams, "has been succeeded by the universally used word 'moron'—a popular word vividly used by Americans to describe each other."

Winners of medals and prizes are All High Browns. Next come Very High Browns. Then Low High Browns and High Low Browns.

"A Low High Brown is a term of contempt given to one who talks much about culture and does not possess a large supply; while a High Low Brown is an enviable creature who combines good fellowship with a not too openly expressed greediness for learning."

"Next we have," Lady Adams goes on to say "The three descending grades of the hierarchy of stupidity, 'Bone Heads,' 'Numb Skulls,' 'Solid Ivories.' The first can neither play nor work nor see a joke. The second are beneath contempt. They dress badly, but without the rather studied negligence of the Low Brown; they attempt much and succeed in nothing; if they drink, they do it vulgarly. In the lowest intellectual 'pouch' squat the Solid Ivories."

"The Solid Ivories are sometimes rather handsome; they usually dress carefully and well; they are often members of a good fraternity, and what they say on social matters goes; all of which would be surprising were it not that America is not so democratic. One of my best boy friends has just 'checked out' from college. No wonder. He was afraid to use his brains, and he had a fine set, saying, 'I won't be a dirty bird.' His mother signed his report card. 'To keep' Dad from knowing how poorly you are doing.' The boy was so attractive that 'girls were crazy over him.' He had free use of a three thousand dollar car. I tell you THAT BOY WAS HANDICAPPED, and he was no Bone Head either."

OUR CONVERSATION CORNER

As a Bird

Shall I follow aviation as a life career?

Interested Boy.

ANSWER—If you mean as a pilot I say NO. Two reasons: First because your adolescent ambition to fly is probably first cousin to your grandfather's ambition at a similar age to go west to fight the Indians.

If you mean aeronautical engineering and industrial aviation I say Yes. I have great faith in the future of aeronautics and its unlimited possibilities for the youth of our country. Aeronautics offers an outstanding opportunity. It is in its infancy as a science and before it lies a brilliant future. Its field includes not only the training of pilots, but the education and training of youths in the practical work of designing, building and developing aircraft and air-craft engines for the utilization of the airplane on a commercial basis. These courses include the fundamental training of mechanical engineering, which is in itself a great training.

Up To Date

Why will our young people read the nasty sex stuff that is on our newstands?

ANSWER—This literary garbage does not interest young people who have been trained to have a proper perspective on life. But to the badly brought up girl or boy or the one with a half-starved emotional life, or the ignorant notions of love—all these fall victims to these word panders. Education and good environment, by furnishing wholesome, character-building interests defeat these literary lepers.

Shakespeare is very high-browish to some people. But rewrite him in sex story form and see what happens:

The Marriage Game

As Played to a Decision Every Day

By Mrs. Ray Arnold Hutton

ELDERLY JUVENILES

HER PLAY: Men are so blindly intolerant on the subject of age. They are sure to find fault with women of fifty who have not allowed their dispositions and their joints to get old and stiff, and they profess contempt for the few delightful men who refuse to take the procession of years as their own tragic doom. Too many men accept the gospel that at fifty their bones may begin to creak and their blood to freeze. We older generation should find an excellent example for our everyday behavior in the carefree young people who surround us.

HIS COUNTER PLAY: I enjoy witnessing the spectacle of the frivolities and extravagances of youth. Nothing is so charming and fascinating as the mad behavior of the lad just learning what the world is all about. Nor is anything more poignantly beautiful than the self-assurance and poise of the girl just out of school. But this is so because the youngsters are saturated in the illusions and innocence of youth. The same code pursued by grown-ups, fifty-year old ones at any rate, is a sickening and revolting exposure of forgettable ugliness.

way doing nothing. I arranged to meet Barbara at Lyons for the Fairfax trial, while I went on ahead to the Falls. It was there I first met Barbara while I was driving the only taxi in the burg—a weird bus, owned and built by myself from the junked parts of a dozen different cars. I sold this comical cab for seventy bucks to the town miser, Narrow Pelk.

When I blew into the town narrow offered me back my car for a hundred dollars. Acting on a sudden hunch, I bargained with him and finally bought my former meal ticket for $65 cash. I figured it a good buy, for I could fix it up myself, take it to New York and operate it there as a independent taxi. I just wasn't born to punch a time clock and work for somebody else. Also I thought Barbara Baxter might regard a taxi owner as something more palatable than a taxi driver.

Just before I left Fairfax Falls for Lyons I ran into Jack Fairfax! I was about to pass this egg without a second glance when he stopped me with a kind of timid wave of his hand and a sheepish, friendly smile. Well, I was as much amazed at his plain wish to bury the hatchet as I was shocked at his appearance. Usually a fashion plate, his clothes was now seedy, he had a crying need of a haircut and shave, and his face was drawn and haggard. No fooling, he was a waiking photograph of a total loss, and he looked like he fell out of a well or something.

Dressed to thrill and succeeding at it, Pansy opened the door of a lobby drum on upper Broadway which she shared with a girl who she takes a photograph from the mantel. It was a picture of herself, would be in no danger anywhere.

I returned his greeting with a doubtful nod, and he asked me about these panics I generally night-mare? This maiden, answering readily to the name of "Miss Jukes," took the air with a wise grin, which greatly annoyed me.

"Have a drink, Big Boy?" smiles Pansy, taking my hat.

"Yeah—water!" I says, sitting down and glancing around the rooms. "You look like Prosperity's sister. How d'ye like the chorus?"

"Fried!" she giggles, flopping down beside me, and I'm instantly drunk with cologne. "I'm not in the chorus, Bill; I'm in the movies—look!"

With that she jumps up and takes a photograph from the mantel. It was a picture of herself in a costume which didn't contain enough cloth to put a cuff on a man's trousers! I handed it back.

"So you're a movie star, hey?" I grins amiably. "That'll wow 'em down in Fairfax Falls. Wait till the Jaspers you used to wait on pick up the papers and see 'Pansy Pilkington, Heaven's Gift to the Silver Screen!'"

"No yet, but soon," says Pansy. "I wouldn't fool you, Bill. I'm only an extra now—a super in a super-production being assembled over on Long Island. Honest to Fairfax banks it's got everything in it but the kitchen stove, and I think it's called 'The Plaything of Nero.' The scream to me is that in the big Roman banquet scene I trip gaily in with a platter of grapes. My Gawd, even in the movies I'm still a waitress!"

When Pansy's voice trailed off I looked up with a start and found she was gazing at me with serious eyes.

"A Canadian dime for your thoughts!" I remarked, helping myself to a cake.

"Bill," she says, "why don't you come over to Long Island with me and try your luck at the studio? I bet you'd photograph like a million. You handsome devil! Some of us extras get seventy-five a day, and all of us gets lots of laughs. That's not driving a taxi, cheated, hasn't it? Mr. Puttee, the big director, is showing me a lot of—personal attention, and I'm satisfied I can use a few smiles to get you a job!"

"You better not try to give that movie director no run-around, Pansy, or you'll positively win yourself a lot of grief," I warned her.

"These city slickers is different from the traveling salesmen you used to make jump through hoops at Fairfax Falls."

"For Gossakes, what got you so educated?" demands Pansy. "Remember we both came out of the country."

"I know," I says. "And what we want to do now is take the country out of us!"

Then I told her that I'd declare myself in on the movies at the proper time, as I had to shove off for Lyons in a few days for the trial of Jack Fairfax.

Tired of hanging around Broad-

After spending a couple of days getting my sea-going taxi in shape I made up my mind to take Pansy Pilkington's tip and snatch a job in the movies. I came to that conclusion while overhauling the motor, you can do a lot of heavy thinking while putting around with wrenches and hammers and greases—try it some time. Though at that my brain generally does the best gymnastics when I'm sitting.

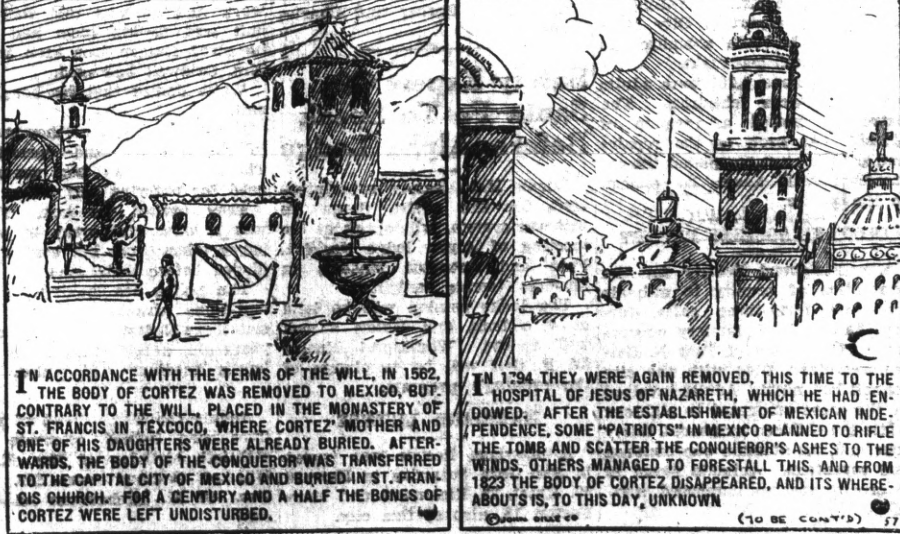

Well, I drove my dilapidated taxi over to the studio on Long Island where Pansy was elevating the noisier theatricals, incidentally intending to get back from the charming young lady the diamond ring I'd bought for Barbara Baxter.

The stern watchman at the studio gates got his first inkling of me when I shot past him at the municipal speed of twenty-five miles hour, the best I could coax from my synthetic motor. I guess after one look at the crazily shimmying back of my burlesque car he figured we both belonged in the same company's custard pie drum and let it go at that.

Men Who Made the World FERNANDO CORTEZ By Dr. Elliot Shoring, the Noted Historian

AN INTENSELY INTERESTING PERSONALITY IN HIS LIFE TIME, CORTEZ' LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT WAS WORTHY OF THE MAN. LIVING IN AN AGE WHICH MIGHT ALMOST BE CALLED UNENLIGHTENED, HIS KEEN INTELLECT RECOGNIZED THAT MANY OF THE ACCEPTED TRADITIONS OF HIS DAY WERE WRONG. AND SOON HIS LAST TESTAMENT CORTEZ MENTIONED HIS DOUBTS ABOUT THE RIGHT OF HOLDING SLAVES, AND HE ADMONISHED HIS SON TO STUDY THE QUESTION AND THAT IF HE FELT THE PRACTICE WAS WRONG HE MUST ACT IN ACCORDANCE WITH STRICT JUSTICE. AND HE ENJOINED HIS SON TO GIVE GREAT ATTENTION TO THE WELFARE AND EDUCATION OF HIS PEOPLE. CORTEZ LEFT AN ENDOWMENT FUND FOR THE HOSPITAL OF JESUS IN MEXICO, AND FOR A COLLEGE AND MONASTERY AT COTACAHUAN. HE PROVIDED THAT MASSES BE SAID AT HIS FATHER'S TOMB, AND ALSO PROVIDED TWO THOUSAND MASSES FOR THE SOULS OF THOSE WHO HAD FOUGHT WITH HIM IN THE CONQUEST, WHICH, AS ONE AUTHOR SUGGESTS, CANNOT BE CONSIDERED EXCESSIVE IN VIEW OF THEIR PROBABLE SPIRITUAL NECESSITIES.

IN ACCORDANCE WITH THE TERMS OF THE WILL, IN 1562, THE BODY OF CORTEZ WAS REMOVED TO MEXICO, BUT CONTRARY TO THE WILL, PLACED IN THE MONASTERY OF ST. FRANCIS IN TEXCOCO, WHERE CORTEZ' MOTHER AND ONE OF HIS DAUGHTERS WERE ALREADY BURIED. AFTERWARDS, THE BODY OF THE CONQUEROR WAS TRANSFERRED TO THE CAPITAL CITY OF MEXICO AND BURIED IN ST. FRANCIS CHURCH. FOR A CENTURY AND A HALF THE BONES OF CORTEZ WERE LEFT UNDISTURBED.

IN 1794 THEY WERE AGAIN REMOVED, THIS TIME TO THE HOSPITAL OF JESUS OF NAZARETH, WHICH HE HAD ENDOWED. AFTER THE ESTABLISHMENT OF MEXICAN INDEPENDENCE, SOME "PATRIOTS" IN MEXICO PLANNED TO RIFLE THE TOMB AND SCATTER THE CONQUEROR'S ASHES TO THE WINDS. OTHERS MANAGED TO FORESTALL THIS, AND FROM 1823 THE BODY OF CORTEZ DISAPPEARED, AND ITS WHEREABOUTS IS, TO THIS DAY, UNKNOWN.

"CHRISTIAN SCIENCE; THE FRIEND OF MANKIND"

John Randall Dunn, C.S.B. Delivers Lecture Here

A lecture entitled "Christian Science; The Friend of Mankind" by John Randall Dunn, C. S. B., of Boston, member of the Christian Science Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts, was delivered last evening at the Lincoln School auditorium to a large audience.

The lecturer was introduced by L. J. Layton, who made the following introductory remarks:

Friends: It is with gladness I welcome you on behalf of First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Richmond, to listen to a lecture on Christian Science.

Among the many activities of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, Massachusetts, is the Board of Lectureship, established by Mary Baker Eddy, the discoverer and founder of Christian Science.

The motive of a Christian Science lecture is to present the Truth, to do good and to bless all mankind, and this Board is composed of men and women well qualified to spread this Truth throughout the world and to give a correct explanation of its teachings.

It is my privilege to introduce to you this evening a member of this Board, Mr. John Randall Dunn, C. S. B., of Boston, Massachusetts, who will now address you.

The lecture delivered by Mr. Dunn was as follows:

It is my happy privilege to tell you of a friend that has been in your midst for some time. I refer to the Christian Science movement. Some of you may not have recognized this friend, in fact, you may even have fancied it to be an enemy, or something to be avoided. But the fact remains that the best friend, the most comforting message mankind has had since the days of the early Christians, has appeared in your time, and mine, and is known as Christian Science.

Friendliness of Christian Science. Christian Science can be immediately envisaged as the friendliness of a system that is uniting such opposites—so considered by humanity—as Christianity and science? Should not Christians instantly recognize as a friend that message which proclaims the teachings of Jesus to be scientific—in other words, based upon changeless law, and capable of proof? And what a friend to mankind is this Science of Christianity! Strange as this may sound to your ears, it comes with a message of helpfulness to Jew and Gentile, to doubter and religiousist, to physician and minister. It comes not to curse, but to bless, and if the process of blessing and healing mankind it seems to tear down, it is only that one may rebuild on surer foundations a system of thinking and living far more beautiful and logical and satisfying than one has ever known before. The prophet Jeremiah foretold the appearing of this truth, in these words: "See, I have set thee over the nations and over the kingdoms to root out and to pull down . . . to build and to plant."

Personal Experience. In our family, we were dimly aware of the presence of this friend in our community; in fact, we saw in the town an unquestioned case of healing, yet our eminent ecclesiastical respectability hardly warranted more than a passing notice of this newcomer—in religious circles. As a child I felt very strongly, after listening to the conversation of my elders, that the elect, the really best people of earth, were, like ourselves, homeopaths, Episcopals and Republicans. So it was not until many years had passed, and the burden of suffering had lain heavily upon a dear one that we sought the aid of this friend, and in one week's treatment in Christian Science the improvement was truly miraculous. From my earliest recollection, the sufferer in question had been a semi-invalid, subject to vicious attacks of stomach and intestinal trouble. Imagine my surprise on joining the family circle after an absence of a week, to see this erstwhile dyspeptic partake of a meal that in the past would have involved the speedy summoning of the physician. I looked on in alarm, and finally whispered to the one next to me that our invalid was evidently not himself mentally and should be stopped. She cautioned me to say nothing about it; that such scenes had been enacted at each meal for the past week and without harmful results; that he was having Christian Science treatment, and that we should finally touch the hem of Christ's healing garment, and glimpse the truth for which she has been searching all her life.

Christian Science Not Blind Faith. Now without a doubt, through all the centuries Christian people have had experiences wherein they have witnessed faith-healings. We see them about us today. Remarkable cures, wrought through the ministrations of earnest Christian men and women, are reported in many cities. And to every sincere Christian, striving to obey the Master's command to heal the sick, Christian Scientists say, "Blessings on you! But do not the healings accomplished through blind faith remind one of the musical selections rendered by those who 'play by ear' and know nothing of the science of notes? The musician who plays 'by ear' cannot impart his musical sense to another. He is not even sure of retaining a certain piece of music himself, because of his inability to grasp the science, or law, underlying all music. Now here was where Mary Baker Eddy proved such a friend to those struggling to catch and reproduce the healing harmonies of heaven. She had, without doubt, a remarkable healing through a deep religious experience. But she was not content to rest there. To use her words, 'I must know the Science of this healing' (Science and Health, p. 109), and for three years she withdrew from society and diligently searched the Scriptures for the law or rule underlying her healing, and the healing work of the Master. In the meantime, she was having extraordinary healing experiences with others. Of such healing she speaks in her writings very briefly and modestly, but it has been my privilege to hear from the lips of several persons whom she cured how truly remarkable was her healing work. And here she proved that the Science of Christianity is of God, and not of the carnal mind; for many of the mental, so-called curative systems abroad in the land today frankly admit their inability to cope with such nervous and functional disorders. On the other hand, Christian Science has healed or cured diseases as readily as it has banished hysterics, and undifferentiated testimonies to this fact abound.

No Personal Preaching. Now this friend of mankind, this spiritual understanding of God and man, Mrs. Eddy has brought to us in her remarkable book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures." What a unique gift is this—one which links both science and health to the Bible! Many are surprised when they hear the announcement at the Christian Science Sunday services that "The Bible and the Christian Science textbook are our only preaching" (Quarterly page 4). No personal preaching! They exclaim. Why should one go to church just to hear reading? And then, little by little, the wonder of this new church organization dawns upon one, and more than ever he sees in Mrs. Eddy's work the imprint of divine leading. Instead of one personal minister, every member of the congregation has, in Bible language, become a "priest unto God," and has been studying and working on the sermon during the week. For one of the first tasks and most joyous privileges of the student of Christian Science is to give daily attention to the Lesson-Sermons in the Christian Science Quarterly composed of Bible texts and their correlative passages from the Christian Science textbook. (Quarterly p. 4.) This naturally involves mental activity, and consequently some mortals are not attracted at first to this form of service. The attitude of many church-goers is reflected in a quaint story of the famous Robert Southey. He tells of the minister who met on the Sabbath a very hard-working man, a member of his congregation, and said to him, "I suppose Sunday is a blessed day of rest for you." "Aye," replied the other, "it is that! I comes to church, sits me down, lays my legs up, and thinks o' nothing!"

Why Scientists Go to Church. Now it may as well be stated here, and positively, that the Church of Christ, Scientist, is no place for the man or woman who refuses to think. In fact, among other reasons, one should attend Christian Science services to think and to give. What can the phrase "divine service" mean, but to ponder the deep things of God, to drink in the spiritual truth of being, and through prayer or righteous thinking serve and heal the brother-man? Such services become glorious opportunities for spiritual broadcasting, and fortunate is that community wherein a body of right-thinking Christians gathers each Sunday and Wednesday to radiate into human consciousness the thoughts of God. For he it remembered that one may awaken from a dream, a mistake, but never from a fact. It is congregation feels the importance of his work, and the necessity of his sharing in the reflecting, the spiritual broadcasting of the healing truths of the Lesson-Sermons at the Sunday services. He feels the importance of "tuning in" on the great wireless wave of thanksgiving that sweeps through human consciousness as the result of the mid-week testimony meetings.

Revolutionizing Thought of Prayer. The moment one begins the study of the opening chapter of the text-book, it becomes apparent that his thought of prayer must be revolutionized and this involves a mighty revolutionizing of his concept of God. To whom or what are we praying? To a God who is only a magnified human being, who needs to be argued with, pleaded with and reminded of His duty towards His creation? Have not the prayers of mortals these many centuries arisen to an unthinkable God? So right on the very first pages of Science and Health, Mrs. Eddy challenges the religious thought of the world on the subject of prayer. Hear this remarkable and yet intensely sensible utterance: "Who would stand before a blackboard and pray the principle of mathematics to solve the problem? The rule is already established, and it is our task to work out the solution. Shall we ask the divine Principle of all goodness to do His own work? His work is done, and we have only to avail ourselves of God's rule in order to receive His blessing, which enables us to work out our own salvation." (Science and Health, p. 3.)

Healing of False Appetite. Let us here consider a few examples of the solving of problems for sin, sickness, and other discordant conditions through the righteous prayer of Christian Science. A man who was sadly victimized by the tobacco habit, sought out a Christian Science practitioner. He announced that he "confined" himself to one hundred cigarettes a day but was fast becoming a mental and physical wreck. He admitted he felt that he must smoke every waking hour, and even arose once or twice in the night to gratify his craving for the weed. He told the practitioner frankly, however, that if Christian Science taught merely the use of the human will, he would not waste a moment with its treatment, for his power of resistance had completely gone. The practitioner explained that Christian Science treatment relies upon God-Power and not human will-power. The man then asked for treatment. The practitioner gave him Science and Health to read, and when he closed his eyes in silent prayer, to use the words of our textbook, "in the quiet sanctuary of earnest longings," he began to "deny sin and plead God's aliveness" (Science and Health page 15). He realized that man, the real man, the image of Spirit, could not crave matter—could not find satisfaction in material sensation; that man was the expression of God, and as God is eternally satisfied with His perfect handiwork, so man must reflect this divine satisfaction now, "I shall be satisfied when I awake with Thy likeness." The practitioner pondered this glorious fact joyfully, confidently. In fact, this truth, which was indeed the healing Christ, so flooded his consciousness that he felt the work was done, and looked up and said to his patient, "You do not want to smoke now, do you?" A look of positive bewilderment spread over the other's features. His lips moved, as if trying to bring back a taste that had departed. "Why," he said, "do you know I haven't the slightest desire for the stuff?" And that was the very last of that dream. There was no gradual "tapering off," no nervous reaction. Had a miracle happened? Not at all! The truth of being had dispelled a false sense, a dream, that practitioner's communion with the facts about God and man instantly solved the problem.

Healing of Unlovely Disposition. During the war a Christian Scientist in Canada moved to a neighborhood where lived an elderly man notorious for his dislike of children. This Scientist had a little three-year-old girl who was a very loving child and easily made friends, but the mother could not bring herself to tell the little thing about the unlovely man. A day or two after their arrival, the mother from the window saw the child run up to the old man, who was walking by the house, and slip her hand in his. Roughly he cast it from him, and commanded the child to "go into the house and stay there!" The following day, nothing daunted, the little one again approached him with the same unlovely results. When on the third day the man repulsed the child even a little more cruelly, she came into the house sobbing as if her heart were breaking. The mother gathered the little one into her arms, and for a few moments had a great struggle with indignation. How could anyone be so heartless with a loving child? Soon, however, the great friend, who is ever near, and to whom the Scientist finds himself speedily turning in times of stress—the spiritual understanding of God and man—this friend came to the rescue, and the mother said softly: "Baby, dear, you and mother have been seeing something that God does not see at all. We have been seeing what we think is a man who is unloving, when man is the very expression of Love itself! We must look away from this unhappy picture, dear, and see the man that God made; for God's man is loving and kind and beautiful!" The next day the mother found that some food on which she had counted for a meal, was exhausted. This, in war times, as all know, presented often a serious situation. She stood still in prayerful thought, knowing that in some way divine Love would meet her need, when in the door burst her little girl, her arms filled with fresh vegetables, and in a reverent voice the child said, "Mudder, the man God made gave me these!" Ah, here indeed was righteous prayer—the prayer, or realization which pierced the Adamist and revealed the real, sinless, spotless creation of a good God. That little child's reflection of divine Love had so transformed the unhappy man that when the Scientist and her family finally left the neighborhood, he went over the loss of his little friend, "The League of Loving Hearts."

There is, and probably will continue to be, an endless diversity of opinion as to the advantages or disadvantages of a League of Nations; but what might we expect to see when mankind awakens to the recognition of the fatherhood and motherhood of a God who is Love, and among all God's children a League of Loving Hearts? National as well as individual differences would fade like phantoms of the night. Greed and hate would fall for lack of a witness. This is not merely a philosopher's dream-theory. It is demonstrable law, and is being demonstrated in greater and greater fullness in tens of thousands of instances daily.

What Do Christian Scientists Know About Sickness?

At this point someone may say, "I can see that this understanding of prayer might help a sinful man, but what does the average Christian Scientist know about a sick man?" He knows a great deal about him, and what is most important, he knows what is making him sick! Thanks to the Christian Science textbook, the metaphysician can put his finger instantly on the cause of every disease on earth. He does not search for the cause in matter, but straightway goes to the mental realm.

Jesus Cures Cause of Disease.

The greatest physician earth has ever known, Jesus of Nazareth, solved, for all time the problem as to the cause of disease. A woman is brought to him suffering from a serious and disgusting ailment. The Master does not indicate that the difficulty is the result of infection or contagion, of improper diet or unhealthy atmosphere. Nor for one moment does he allow the sufferer to feel that this is a visitation of God. Simply and directly he goes to the root of the trouble. He speaks of the patient as a woman "whom Satan hath bound." And briefly, what is Satan but sin, and fear, and ignorance? So we have sin-sick men, and fear-sick men, and ignorance-sick men. Should we not therefore call to our aid only those physicians, those helpers, who know something about prayer, and who know how to eradicate fear and ignorance and sin?

Healing of Son of Shunammite.

We find in the Old Testament many instances of spiritual healing. One of these, which stands apart as a beautiful cameo, is the raising of the son of the Shunammite woman. It will be recalled that Elisha had been an honored guest in her home, and that both she and her husband had perceived that the prophet was a "holy man of God." Therefore when her little son is brought to her one day very ill, and subsequently dies whilst she holds him, it apparently never occurs to her to resort to any material aid. She must get to the man of God immediately. And the remarkable thing is that she does not voice error—does not even tell her husband that the child has seemingly passed away. When he asks her why she is going to the man of God, she replies simply, "It shall be well." Elisha sees her coming in the distance, and sends his servant to inquire if it is well with them, and with the child. She answers resolutely, "It is well!" Oh the glorious recognition of the truth of being! How beautiful is the reward! For every Bible student knows how the combination of that mother's splendid faith and fidelity and the spiritual understanding of the prophet banished the picture of death and restored the child.

A Modern Shunammite.

A Christian Science practitioner related the following experience: He said he had been called to see a little lad, three or four years of age, who, to the physical senses, seemed desperately ill. While a Christian Scientist never makes a material diagnosis of a case, anyone who had had any experience at all with sickness could tell that this was an extreme case of pneumonia. The mother, a faithful student of Christian Science, held the little unconscious figure in her arms, bravely smiling and declaring to the practitioner that she was knowing that all was well. Here indeed was a modern Shunammite! The practitioner joined her in her glorious prayer. Faithfully, patiently, they clung to the Father's hand, and audibly rehearsed the comforting promises of healing and protection in the Bible. Sometimes fear would seem to gain an entrance, only to be routed by the heaven-sent consciousness that all was well with God's child. It was a case of "Choose ye this day whom ye will serve." The testimony of the senses reported serious disease, injustice, and an unthinkable God, whilst the Christianly scientific understanding of being, declared life to be deathless, the law of harmonious action to be operating, and a loving Father saying, "It is well with My child!" So they chose the evidence of spiritual sense, and thanked God that the pictures before them were too bad to be true. After possibly four or five hours, the breathing seemed to grow a little less troubled, and the practitioner felt that he could leave for another home where his ministrations were also needed. When fear would try to creep into his thought, he would turn speedily to his communion with the facts of being, and know that Truth was saying of man today as surely as it said centuries ago: "This is my beloved Son in whom I am well pleased!" And to this he would cling, knowing that if God was well pleased with His creation, that creation could not be diseased and agonized, but must be, in truth, harmonious and whole. It was late in the afternoon before he was able to return to his little patient. The door of the house was unlocked and he entered without announcement. Quietly he went to the room where the child had been. It was empty. For a fraction of a moment his heart sank. What had happened? He stood battling with this new terror, when the door was flung open, and in came the child on his little ivy-leafed feet, his face beaming—well and free! The practitioner followed the little fellow in his arms, while grateful tears filled his eyes. It was well with God's child; it always had been well!

"Why Am I Not Healed?"

Let a word be said here to those whose conquest of evil and disease may not have been as speedily achieved as in the case just cited. Are you thanking God daily that all is well with His creation, or do you give way to frequent "whys" such as "Why am I not healed?" or "Why do I have such a problem?" It is a significant fact that not one "why" escapes the lips of the Shunammite mother. She is too busy clinging to the spiritual facts of being, and knowing that all is well with God's creation to ask the wherefore of that which she shortly is to prove sheer illusion. It might be well here to point out that the little word "why" needs only a slight alteration to make that very unlovely word "whine"; in fact, when the student of Christian Science begins whining, he is invariably whining, and the Good Book does not indicate that the whining thought is that which gains admission to the kingdom of God. David tells us that we "enter into His gates with thanksgiving, and into His courts with praise."

True Prayer Is Hymn of Praise.

A woman once stated that she boarded a sleeping car on a night when the heat was very intense. The passengers gloomily predicted a sleepless night for all. The woman in question had been having a struggle with asthma, and her fear of the heat and smoke and dust seemed to throw her into a veritable panic. As she battled with a feeling of suffocation, the suggestion came that she could not possibly live until the morning. "Very well," she said, audibly, "then I shall go praying God!" So she began with one of the beloved Psalms: "Bless the Lord, oh my soul, and all that is within me, bless His Holy name." Again evil suggestion whispered, "You don't mean a word of it! You are only saying words!" "Very well," she replied again, "I shall just 'say words' then, and those words shall be praise to God!" So she continued, falteringly: "Bless the Lord, oh my soul, and forget not all His benefits. Who forgiveth all thine iniquities; who healeth all thy diseases." Over and over the famous words of praise and comfort were whispered . . . suddenly she started and looked about her. It was morning! She had slept like a babe all night, and while those on the train, who dwelt in material sense-testimony, reported an awful journey, she, having entered into His courts, "The consciousness of Love" (Science and Health, page 578) with praise, found peace and rest. True prayer true communion, therefore must be a hymn of thanksgiving, a veritable shout of praise, if it is to possess that spiritual power which will level error's Jerichowalls, dispel the mists of sense and reveal the glorious fact that "Now are we the sons of God." (Can Prayer Heal Financial Sickness?)

"But what of the man financially sick?" someone may ask. "What of the one out of work, or unhappily situated? Can this prayer of spiritual understanding solve such problems?" There are thousands of Christian Scientists who make definite answer, "We know it can, for we have proved it, again and again!" If one would heal a sick business, or solve a problem of supply, one must first discover what man's real business or purpose is. The first chapter of Genesis settles this question speedily when it states that "God created man in His own image; in the image of God created He him." Man's work therefore is to image forth or reflect God, to express or reflect intelligence, law and Love. One of the red-letter moments in my human experience was on that happy day when this great friend of mankind, this Science of Christianity, brought to me the conviction that man was necessary to God. At first such a thought seemed almost blasphemous, especially to one whose religious training had always reminded him that a miserable sinner he was. But Mrs. Eddy's writings taught me that as the sun's rays are essential if light is to be expressed, number is necessary if one would know the principle of arithmetic, so the divine Mind must be known and expressed through His idea, man, and a man's work is to express God.

The Reflecting Business? Let us suppose that one of the sun's rays was gifted with speech, and one day delivered its problems confronting me and I do not know how they will be met. Do you know that I must shine all day? For this I must have light and power, and how can I obtain them I know not! Could one reply to the ray, he would say, without doubt, "Why are you not intended to be a sun-beam-bearer. Yours is not the work of generating light and heat and power. The sun does that. You are just in the reflecting business!" What burdens can roll from the shoulders of thousands of faithful business men and women when they awaken to the glorious fact that man in God's image must be in the "reflecting business." Now this does not involve a settling back and folding of the hands, and waiting for God to rain blessings on us. It means a rousing to the greatest mental activity one has ever known; and, but an activity devoid of fear and burden, and joyous in service. It is such an activity as is indicated in Victor Hugo's beautiful lines:

"Be like the bird, who, halting in his flight
On limb too slight,
Feels it give way beneath him,
And yet sings,
Knowing he hath wings!"

What a comforting realization may we all have this very moment as to our life-work. No one need leave this place today without a position, and a position that cannot be lost or taken away. This position is found in the glorious realization of man's oneness with the Father, in the fact that his eternal business is the reflection of God.

Love the Healer of Economic Strife.

What glorious things are before the race when this Christianly scientific concept of man's true business is universally discerned and practiced! The Father's business will be the activity of good, and men and women will no longer regard their fellows as competitors, but co-workers in the Father's great plan. Again I state that this is not the vain imagining of impractical philosophers, but truth which has been demonstrated again and again. The Christian Scientist in business can tell you of strikes amicably settled, labor problems harmoniously and justly solved, selfishness, and hate, and domination, healed both on the part of employer and employee, when these problems have all been taken to the great Head of the firm in earnest, understanding prayer. Such prayer declares with conviction that there is in truth only one Mind, and that all of God's children reflect this Mind, and all therefore are brethren. How can divisions, and greed, and misunderstandings continue, in the presence of such a wave of healing Christian love?

World Nearer Goal of Fellowship

Many may tell you pessimistically that the sacrifices of men and nations in the great war have been for naught. Let us refuse to believe it! The glorious lessons of selfless service, and man's dependence upon his brother, can never be lost! The whole world is the better for them, and nearer the great goal of universal fellowship. In an orchestra, one sees a beautiful example of what is called "team-work," and of the interdependence of the instruments. No one instrument can play a mighty symphony. It has its part, and an important part therein; but it is the collective contribution of all the players that goes to make the one great harmony. What if the instrument we are playing seems insignificant? The great horn next to us needs our lighter touch to enhance his beauty, while his deeper tone enriches our tone. Team-work to solve world's problems.

What if the work in which you find yourself seems humdrum, wearisome, and unimportant? Stop listening to your own instrument. Lift your gaze to the great Leader, the divine Mind. Play for Him, and the brother beside you. Put your heart into it, and joy into it! If your work is making beds, make the very best beds of which you are capable. If you must go to a dingy office day after day, play a better tune to help the feeble and possible flapping brother at your side.

This is the love, the team-work that is destined to solve the great economic problems of the day. And the rule is, that if we are faithful over a few things we shall be made rulers over many. Then may we hear the "Well done, good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord."

Man's Bank Account of Good

What a beautiful invitation to the sons of men—to enter into the joy of divine Love! There are no barriers, no locked doors. Enter into the joy of the Lord! Go right into this spiritual consciousness and claim the joy that is yours as the child of the Highest! A great bank account of good awaits your draft. But if one has millions in a bank, does the money come to him without demand? No, he must write out and sign a check which says, "Pay to the order of." It is such a lawful, righteous demand that it does not even say "Please!" Let us learn to make larger demands on this great treasure of good, and joy, and freedom. Claim it, thank God it is ours! This is the prayer, the communion, through which we enter heaven, harmony, and taste of salvation here and now. "All's Well."

You who have travelled at sea know how at night a "lookout" goes up to the "crow's-nest" on the forward mast, and as the ship's bells ring out the hours, he calls, "All's well!" So on our journey, when the night is dark and the storms of fear and hate threaten to overwhelm us, let us not be dismayed! In Mrs. Eddy's beautiful words:

"And o'er earth's troubled, angry sea
I see Christ walk,
And come to me, and tenderly,
Divinely talk."

(Poems, p. 12).

Oh, let us welcome this friend, this spiritual understanding—the Christ, the Comforter promised by Jesus. Let us station this friend at the watch-tower of consciousness, and then throughout the night and until the morning dawns, we shall hear the glad call: "All's well! Be not afraid! God is at the helm! All's well!"

Richmond's hotel room burglar was busy again on Saturday night according to a report made to the Richmond police Sunday morning by Milton M. Leven of the West Side Hotel.

Leven reported to the authorities that while he slept with the door of his room, unlocked on Saturday night, someone entered the room and removed a blue serge suit and a pair of flannel trousers valued at $40. The thief did not awaken Leven.

Currie Remains Are Sent To Corning

Following communication with John Hamilton, brother of Mrs. Theresa Isabelle Currie, 65-year-old Richmond woman who lost her life in a fire at her home, Twenty-third and Pine streets, Friday night, the remains were shipped to Corning yesterday, by Wilson and Kratzer.

Mrs. Currie had lived in Richmond since 1906. According to Mrs. Hadley, 255 Fifteenth street, for whom the dead woman worked, Mrs. Currie lost everything in the San Francisco fire, and had lived much to herself since the death of her husband in 1913. She was a native of Red Bluff.

Child Struck By Auto Is Badly Cut

Josephine Pittelli, two, 2412 Twenty-sixth street, sustained severe cuts and bruises Sunday morning when she was struck by an automobile driven by Mrs. J. Braz, 2017 Barrett avenue. The accident occurred at Twenty-third and Market streets, San Pablo. The child received treatment at the emergency hospital, and was later taken to her home.

REBEL SPY

Myrna Loy who has great role as Roma, Filipino love girl, in "ACROSS THE PACIFIC," now being screened at the California theatre.

"Across Pacific" Is Attraction At The California

"Across the Pacific," the Warner master-film now at the California theatre, is the first really big attempt to picture that phase of the Spanish-American war which includes the pursuit and capture of the rebel, Aguinaldo, in the jungles of the Philippines. Great historic figures of the nineties, pictured in the film, are Colonel Roosevelt, George Dewey, Colonel Funston, and Aguinaldo himself, the latter being the only one of that courageous company still living.

America's husky favorite, Monte Blue, is starred, playing the part of a southern boy, who, after an unavoidable misunderstanding with his sweetheart, leaves his Kentucky home, enlisting with a California regiment for service across the Pacific. A native girl, Roma, played by Myrna Loy, is enamored of the young volunteer from the States, and Funston, knowing the girl to be in possession of Aguinaldo's secrets, assigns Monte to the uncomfortable task of winning information from the girl by pretense of love for her.

The Kentucky sweetheart, played with charming naivete by Jane Winton, comes with her father to the Philippines to make up the misunderstanding between herself and the unhappy soldier who cannot reveal to her the fact that his love for Roma is official and not personal. The capture of Aguinaldo, after much hardship and many thrilling adventures with the Filipino snipers, leads to the reunion of the couple, who return to the Blue Grass country, and to the up-to-date thrill of joy-riding on a "bicycle" built for two.

Much credit is due Roy Del Ruth, who directed the filming of "Across the Pacific." Possibly a thousand people are used, several regiments of soldiers and Filipinos and all the motley crowd of the camps and the sea. The reproduction of native village and, done, the California beach serving as shores taken from the Philippine stocks themselves.

Other features include the eighth thrilling chapter of "Snowed In," "Topics of the Day," and "Aesop's Fables."

Doctors Do This
Doctors are prescribing a new discovery for constipation, impure blood and bowel indigestion. To millions they are bringing with it quick and remarkable results. It is a gland secretion, derived from beef livers. It stimulates the flow of bile—up to quart a day. Modern research proves that cathartics never do that. That flow of bile floods the bowels and keeps them open. The results come over night. It combats intestinal germs which feed the poisons to the blood. For bile is an antiseptic. It corrects bowel indigestion, for bile is a digestant. Countless people are getting in this way quick and amazing help in many ill conditions. Your doctor, if you consult him, will probably "Clip this advertisement. Take it to our Special Agent, La Moine Drug Co., and he will give you a liberal sample of Dioxol free."

Lions Roar Way To Victory In Basketball Game

In a game filled with thrills, chuckles, heart action or what have you, the local Den of Lions proved their superiority over the Kiwanis club basketballers last night at the Junior high school gymnasium by taking a victory by a score of 27 to 23.

A large number of players went A. W. O. L. but the Merchants association, the chamber of commerce and the city council meetings proved good excuses for those who play in the hot stove league. It was recorded that not one excuse was made on the "sick friend line, although one Kiwanian did solemnly state that his wife was sick and he has to stay home. Plushed with their victory and with high championship hopes blooming in their many chests the Lions are planning to roar their way to a game with the Richmond Rotary club.

During the game several good basketball players in the audience were led out in tears. According to "Doc" Seawright it was a Junior P. A. A. League game. Jim Nelson of the Kiwanians was the high man for his team and "Doc" Root did some pretty basket shooting for the lions.

The Lions included Ed. Burr, Burke, Miller, Smith, and Fox. The Kiwanians lineup included Doc Root, Carl Wassley, Ralph Bergan, Lee Wharton, Doc Seawright and Jim Nelson.

It is reported that many cases of sleep burns resulted in a loss of sleep for some of the amateur "Nibs" Prices.

The Lions included Ed. Burr, Burke, Miller, Smith, and Fox. The Kiwanians lineup included Doc Root, Carl Wassley, Ralph Bergan, Lee Wharton, Doc Seawright and Jim Nelson.

Fifth Birthday Of St. Edmunds Church Observed

Just five years ago yesterday the St. Edmunds Episcopal church at Tenth street and Barrett avenue was opened for the public and last night with simple and appropriate ceremonies the anniversary was celebrated by the members of the parish.

The ladies' guild of the church, which is headed by Mrs. Henry Johns Hill, had charge of the arrangements and they prepared the program and took charge of serving the refreshments.

The honor of cutting the huge birthday cake, decorated with five candles, was given to Mrs. E. H. Harlow and Mrs. Julia Parks, two of the oldest members of the church here.

A letter of congratulation from John B. Green, of Kansas City, a former resident of this city who was one of the first members of the church, was read by the vicar, Rev. H. I. Oberholtzer.

George Harlow was master of ceremonies and he led in community singing.

An amusing pantomime was presented by Joe Baker assisted by several other young people.

Stribling Wins Over Huffman In "Mat" Contest

(By Universal Service)

NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Proving beyond question that he is still the greatest wrestler in the heavy-weight division, William L. Young, Stribling of California in a 20 minute time limit bout at Madison Square Gardens.

There were no falls. Before the contest Mr. W. L. Miller had promised the public that Stribling would show the public something new in this contest. Miller contended that Stribling had learned how to punch.

All that Stribling placed on display was three or four new holds. He was given the decision, Huffman tried earnestly all during the ten rounds but Stribling still has the knack of making his opponent look bad. If he himself cannot look good.

The audience gave the boys the "razzberry" after the close of every round. A recapitulation of the rounds showed that Huffman had two, Stribling three and the remainder were even.

Los Angeles—White Memorial Hospital to have $500,000 addition.

FINAL PLANS ARE MADE FOR MEMBERSHIP CAMPAIGN

each committee member will be assigned two assistants from the general membership of the Chamber of Commerce.

In this manner a thorough canvass of the entire field will be made.

As Chairman Thornton put it: "Progressive citizens of Richmond recognize that the Chamber of Commerce is the one organization working constantly day after day for the development of Richmond."

"They know that as Richmond grows and prospers their own businesses will grow and prosper. This applies to every professional man or woman—doctor, lawyer, dentist, as well as the dealer in merchandise, the manufacturer, the auto dealer, the gas and oil station owner, the garage owner, the real estate men, the barbers, the beauty parlors, the building contractors, the cleaners and dyers, confectioners, restaurant owners, hotels, finance companies, feed, fuel and grain merchants and the general merchants who sell wearing apparel for grown-ups and children or deal in food stuffs."

"This committee is not only selling the Chamber of Commerce but it is selling Richmond. Richmond will be only as great as its chamber of commerce because its success is largely in the hands of the chamber of commerce, devoted as it is to promoting the civic, commercial, industrial, and educational and social welfare of the city."

"Those who will be asked to join the Chamber of Commerce will be told that in giving their support to the organization they are paving the way for their own prosperity no matter what their occupation profession or business may be. Property owners are vitally interested in the success of the Chamber of Commerce because property values hinge upon the effectiveness of Chamber of Commerce activities in bringing new citizens to Richmond, in encouraging civic improvements, in bettering conditions in the city. Those are fundamental activities of a live, wide-awake Chamber of Commerce and Richmond possesses just such an organization."

A. L. Paulsen, in charge of the advertising and publicity, features of Chamber of Commerce Week, was instructed to provide huge banners to be flung across Macdonald avenue at Twenty-third street and either at Tenth or Ninth street, with appropriate wording.

Emphatic window display cards to be placed in the windows of members on Macdonald avenue are also being arranged by Paulsen and his assistants, Joe Reed and B. S. Sanders.

So anxious is the membership committee to get to work that some of the members who begin at once checking the names given them and securing applications of new members.

The next meeting of the committee will be Wednesday night, February 16th at the Hotel Carquinez.

Attending last night's meeting were: George Thornton, E. B. Bull, P. M. Sanford, Jesse J. Hitchcock, Joseph Reed, Henry Soto, F. A. Mero, A. L. Paulsen, W. Chapin, Roy Eakle, T. G. Gray, E. P. Vaughan, E. H. Higgins, Helen Kingsbury, B. S. Sanders and Pat Macdonald.

BANDITS SAW THROUGH ROOF AND ROB SHOP

(By Universal Service)

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 7.—While seven men and women covered for hours before menacing pistols during one of the most daring burglaries ever perpetrated in Detroit, four armed robbers late today saved a section of flooring from the second story office of a physician and three of them lowered themselves into the Solomoni and Lasky jewelry store, blew a safe and escaped with loot valued at $20,000.

Four well dressed men entered the office home of Dr. Walter Jarzembowski, living in the same place is the family of Stanley Katerdyzsch.

Dr. Jarzembowski assumed the callers were patients and admitted them as such. He had no more than done so, however, than he found himself looking down four barrels of blue steel. The physician and three others of his family as well as the Katerdyzsches were herded to a corner of the room in which they were tramped.

Patiently and with skill the men sawed through the floor that was between them and a modest fortune. One by one three of the men lowered themselves. Soon there was a terrific report as the "soup" with which they had soaked the safe combination exploded and shook the building.

Then, with the safe door blown off the yeggs calmly and leisurely bagged the glittering jewels for which they had labored so industriously.

Four hours after they entered the physician's office they sauntered from the shop leaving few, if any clues.

Stolen Automobile Found By Officer

The machine of L. B. Heatley, Richmond gas and electric man, which was stolen from its parking space on Tenth street, south of Macdonald avenue, Saturday night, was recovered a few hours later through the vigilance of Officer James Eads.

Eads found the machine at Thirty-third street and Pullman avenue.

The police department was on the lookout yesterday for the Chevrolet car of A. H. McKime, who reported that it had been stolen from in front of his home, 670 Fourth street, Sunday morning.

Los Angeles—White Memorial Hospital to have $500,000 addition.

Pave Standard Ave. Before San Pablo Is Demanded

(By Universal Service)

M. Patten appeared before the city council last night and protested the plan adopted by the city council whereby it entered into an agreement with the Key System Transit company to hold up the improvement of Standard avenue for one year because of the heavy expense involved in the improvement of San Pablo avenue.

Fatten contended that the improvement of Standard avenue was more vital to the development of the city, that the street in its present condition was dangerous and unable to handle the traffic which passes over it. He suggested that a partial improvement plan, in under which one side of the street would be paved at a time might alleviate the condition.

City Engineer E. A. Hoffman and City Manager J. A. McVittie pointed out that the plan would not work out. Hoffman also declared that preliminary work to be done before the street could be paved would take the greater part of the summer and that the next rainy season would be required to properly settle in the filled-in portions of the street.

He declared that engineers of the company had agreed to construct the double tracks at this time next year and that in all probability the work of improving Standard avenue would be the next project to be undertaken by the city after the San Pablo work is completed.

Plans for the improvement of San Pablo avenue are now being prepared in the office of Hoffman and will be ready for approval by the council in a short time, he stated last night.

Burg Bros. Start Four New Homes

Will Enjoy a Happy New Year Blood Test Shows Negative

Dec. 28, 1926.

At the beginning of last summer my blood test showed two positives; that is two x's. It had previously been four x's (positives).

After I failed to get relief by treatments of hypodermic shots

I decided to give the Fong Wan Herbs a trial. I drank the herbs for only one month. Nevertheless when I had a blood test taken again on Dec. 24, 1926, the test showed negative. So my blood is thoroughly cleansed and is O. K. at last. I shall certainly enjoy a Happy New Year. Because of my gratitude for the Fong Wan Herbs Treatment, I am glad to give this testimonial.

tation from Hankow down the river to Shanghai and other ports is "very inadequate" and becoming increasingly difficult.

With the rival armies of the Cantonese and northern war lords massed in this territory and engaged in battle, it is believed here that the interior of China will be practically cut off from the coast until a decisive engagement is fought and one or the other faction assumes complete control.

Because of the danger that the fighting may envelop Shanghai itself, it was believed that Americans at Hankow and other interior points may be a safer haven for refugees than the Shanghai foreign settlement.

State Department Awaited Replies—Meanwhile state department officials anxiously awaited replies from the contending military leaders on the Americans proposal to have the international concession at Shanghai removed from the zone of fighting by agreement of both sides. It was believed that formal answers will be received here about Wednesday or Thursday.

Until then, this government will withhold its plans for the protection of its nationals in China, although it was indicated that under no circumstances will American ships and marines be withdrawn from Chinese waters.

Armed Forces Protected—The use of armed force in China by this government was condemned in a note received today by the federal council of churches from 147 American missionaries at Mankang. The note said in part:

"We hope the state department will endorse proposals for negotiation of new treaties and adopt procedures of conciliation in China. In our judgment a show of force is unnecessary and likely to cause trouble and danger to all interests."

No Reply From Chen—Secretary of State Kellogg announced that no formal reply has been received from Eugene Chen, Chinese foreign minister, on the recent note, setting forth the views of this government on the question of new treaties with China.

The Navy Department announced that the destroyers Stewart and Noa, were returning tonight from Manila to Ching-wan-tao. The tanker Pecos is on its way to Shanghai with 250 marines aboard.

Dedication Plans Of Carquinez Bridge To Be Made At Chamber Meeting Here On Monday Night

The Carquinez bridge celebration committee meets again next Monday night, February 14th.

The Richmond Chamber of Commerce rooms at Tenth and Nevins streets, Richmond, have been set aside for the meeting place. The time is 8 o'clock sharp.

Representatives of the civic bodies, chambers of commerce and public officials of Vallejo, Crockett, Martinez, Richmond, Berkeley, Oakland, Alameda and other communities in the vicinity of the giant concrete and steel span—the world's largest highway bridge—comprise the general committee. Decision to meet in Richmond was made at the last meeting held in Vallejo. Richmond, being centrally located in relation to the communities most directly interested in Carquinez bridge, is vitally interested in the mammoth structure which will form the connecting link in a continuous Pacific Coast highway from British Columbia on the north to Mexico on the south.

W. M. Laidlaw of Crockett, chairman of the general committee, arranging for the celebration inaugurating the opening of the bridge on Saturday, May 21. J. J. Walsh is permanent secretary of the celebration committee.

P. M. Sanford, president of the Richmond Chamber of Commerce, will appoint a Carquinez bridge committee to cooperate with the general committee and the chambers of commerce and civic organizations of Oakland, Berkeley, Alameda, Crockett, Vallejo, Santa Rosa, Napa, Sacramento and other communities directly interested in the completion of the Carquinez bridge, recognized as a mighty factor in the future development of this section of California. The Carquinez bridge is the connecting link in a continuous motor highway from British Columbia to Mexico.

Roy Long of the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce is chairman of the invitation committee. He has already received the promise of Governor C. C. Young to participate in the celebration and to make the principal dedicatory

DAUGHERTY AND MILLER TRIAL IS UNDER WAY

(City Universal Service)
NEW YORK, Feb. 7.—Harry M. Daugherty, former attorney general, and Colonel Thomas W. Miller, former Alien Property Custodian, went on trial today for the second time on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government of their unprejudiced services.

The proceedings began when a long line of prospective jurors from a panel of 150 past federal Judge C. Knox to present excuses.

BRIBE CHARGES
Daugherty and Colonel Miller are charged with sharing in a $411,000 bribe paid in 1921 by Richard Merton, German steel magnate, to secure immediate withdrawal from the hands of the Alien Property Custodian property approximately worth $7,000,000.

The money represented the proceeds of the sale of a part of the assets of the American Metal company, which had been owned by Merton's German company, the Metallgesellschaft. Merton, who was the government's star witness in the other trial, swore he had paid $50,000 in cash and $391,000 in Liberty bonds to the late John T. King, Republican National committeeman.

BIG PAVING PROGRAM FOR EL CERRITO

Final action on the much discussed street improvement in the Berkeley Country Club Terrace tract was taken by the trustees of El Cerrito Monday night when the engineer was instructed to prepare plans and specifications calling for a concrete street on Terrace Drive and Stockton avenue, and oil macadam on the balance of the streets which will make a total of about nine miles of improved streets.

A petition, containing about 17 signatures against the improvement and one with 123 signatures requesting the improvement were presented, the board and after some discussion from the audience the board ordered the work.

An offer submitted the trustees about two months ago to give a twenty-foot strip of land on Fairmont now part of the Galpin tract by the subdividers in order to widen the street to 80 feet was accepted by the trustees.

An application of W. H. Barber for traffic policeman was placed on file.

Petitions for street lights at Elm and Willow streets and on Richmond street between Lincoln and Central was referred to Light Commissioner Fred Lutz.

A letter from Charles L. Lyon to the trustees stated that plans of improvement in the hill district would be the equivalent of paying 28 per cent per year and that expenses could be cut down if the trustees placed the city engineer on a salary basis rather than on a percentage was placed on file.

Plans and specifications were ordered prepared by the trustees for the following streets: San Pablo avenue the full width from Manilla avenue south to the county line and Fairmont avenue from San Pablo avenue to easterly city limits.

Two Pumps Lifting 30,000,000 Gallons Daily To Be Installed For Mokelumne Water Project

Two car loads of pumps for the Mokelumne water project are being unloaded at Walnut Creek and will shortly be installed at the pump station near that town, according to announcement by Arthur P. Davis, chief engineer and general manager of the East Bay Municipal Utility District in Oakland.

There are two pumps and they are both designed for use at Walnut Creek, though one may be temporarily installed at the San Joaquin river to pump the emergency supply of water for East Bay consumption this spring. The pumps were specially built in San Francisco to specifications laid down by the district. They were shipped to the scene in "knocked down" condition, the largest single piece weighing approximately seven tons. Special trucks drawn by tractors are being employed to move them from the Southern Pacific side track to the pump house, where heavy concrete foundations have been erected to mount them.

The pumps will lift thirty million gallons daily. A third pump of similar design has been ordered and the contract for its construction has been let. This may be placed at the Mokelumne river a year hence to lift water into the Mokelumne pipe line in advance of the construction of the dam, which will eventually impound these waters.

Indications are, according to Davis, that the Utility District will have to pump from the San Joaquin river this spring to provide sufficient water for domestic and industrial use this year. The rain has been above the normal, but precipitation periods have been interspersed with desiccating winds and long dry spells, which have dried out the ground and prevented run-off. The runoff has been inconsiderable, according to Davis. Reservoirs of the East Bay Water Company are somewhat higher than a year ago, but still dangerously low, and all wells are being pumped to the limit.

All construction contracts on the Mokelumne project between San Pablo creek and the San Joaquin river call for completion in April of this year, and indications are that the contracts will all be finished by that month or soon after, according to Davis.

The situation in which we find ourselves as regards our water supply may be changed by steady and heavy rainfall during February and March," Davis said. "As it now stands, it appears that we may have to pump from the river on sufficient water shortage before next winter. This situation was foreseen by the district and all plans made to meet it."

Ground has been broken on the project far beyond the San Joaquin river, Davis said, yesterday. A large cut through a ridge near Laucha Plains was started during the week just past, marking definite beginning of construction work at that point. The trenching machine, which has just finished eating more than forty miles of dirt west of the river, is now being taken to a point near Stockton to begin excavating for the pipe line. Plates for the pipe line east of the San Joaquin river will arrive some time this month.

Merchants Hear Talk On Fire Prevention At Session Here

thirty-one cents.

"The answer to this," Cooper stated, "is carelessness on the part of the smoker in discarding lighted matches."

The fire department was well represented. Captain Ernest Howard pleaded with three vocal selections: "Mother Machree," "Lay My Head Beneath a Rose" and "Always." He was accompanied by Miss Virginia Vickery on the piano.

The speaker of the evening was Professor Gus A. Griesche of the Pharmaceutical college of San Francisco. He spoke on the importance of the Merchant's association and illustrated what the associations of the east bay district are doing.

This was one of the biggest meetings held by the group for some time and the S. R. O. sign was hung out. A large number of prospective members were in attendance.

Harry Alberts presided. Among the guests was Mrs. Jessie Whitesides, secretary of the Berkeley Downtown association.

$25,240 Damages Asked As Result Of Auto Crash

Mrs. Ella H. Albert and her husband, Maurice Albert, of Richmond, filed suit yesterday in the superior court of Martinez to collect $25,240 from Erroll Fanning, 20, of Richmond, and J. C. Fanning, his father.

The damage suit is the result of an automobile crash between a machine driven by young Fanning and the one in which the Alberts were riding, October 9, 1926, at Second street and Nevins avenue.

Mrs. Albert charges that she sustained internal injuries that will cause permanent disability as a result of the crash. A young woman riding with the Alberts, was killed.

SLIDE BLOCKS S. P. TRACKS NEAR SELBY

Traffic over the Southern Pacific lines through Richmond was tied up for several hours on Sunday night and Monday morning due to a heavy landslide on Hanna hill near Selby.

Services for a time was rerouted through Niles Canyon and later one track was cleared and the regular schedule resumed with trains using a single track for both north and southbound traffic.

Heavy rains which have been general in this section of the country for several weeks were given as the cause of the slide which brought tons of earth and rock down upon the tracks. Steam shovels and a large crew of workers was set to work at once and it is expected that the track will be entirely cleared within a few hours.

No serious damage was done by the slide and it was noted in time to prevent an accident. Officials of the road had noted the condition of the ground above the track at Hanna Hill and look-outs posted for the purpose of immediately stopping traffic when the slide occurred.

A Popular Investment

It is a mistaken idea that safe deposit boxes are luxuries intended only for persons of large means. A good-sized box capable of protecting property worth many thousands of dollars may be rented from the American Trust Company for less than a cent a day. The trifling cost now places this absolute protection of valuables within the reach of every one.
